Important Terms and Conditions

Terms of Employment and Student Classification

- Congratulations on receiving an assistantship. Please be aware that the funding outlined in your assistantship agreement offsets the cost of your graduate program at UNC but will not be sufficient to cover all related costs, such as tuition, fees, books, health insurance and living expenses.
- An individual must be admitted to the Graduate School and a graduate degree program at UNC before being contracted for an assistantship position.
- Graduate students who receive assistantships, including GPI, GTA, GA-A and GRA, are classified by the university as students and not as UNC faculty or administrative employees.
- If there is any variance or conflicting language between an offer letter from a student's school/department and this agreement, the agreement takes precedence.
- Graduate part-time instructors may not be hired to teach graduate-level courses. A student holding a GPI may teach only undergraduate students as the instructor of record. A GTA may teach undergraduate courses under the supervision of a faculty member and may be listed as the instructor of record. Students with GTA appointments may support graduate faculty in graduate classes but are not to be solely responsible for class instruction or grading. They must be supervised directly by faculty. Failure to comply with this policy may result in termination of the assistantship agreement.
- All GPIs, GTAs and GAs must receive annual training in Title IX and resources for managing difficult and/or distressed students. Graduate assistants should attend the Graduate Assistants' Conference in August. While attending the entire conference is strongly recommended, attendance at the Title IX and student support resources workshop is mandatory. The Graduate Assistants' Conference is scheduled August 18, 2025, on Zoom. Please register here: Graduate Assistants' Conference.
- Graduate teaching assistants classified as GPI or GTA must attend a mandatory graduate student teaching conference each fall and complete the full range of follow-up workshops offered during the academic year or forfeit a portion of their stipend. A schedule of teaching workshops will be available by August 16, 2025. The Fall 2025 Graduate Teaching Conference is scheduled August 18, 2025. Some required asynchronous training materials will be posted in Canvas before the conference. All GPIs and GTAs are encouraged to pursue the certificate in college teaching, offered through the Center for the Enhancement of Teaching and Learning and the Graduate School. Please register for the Graduate Teaching Conference.
- By signing this agreement, you agree not to:
 - Accept an assistantship from any other graduate programs or administrative units without first notifying the director/chair/supervisor of the initial appointing unit of such an offer and receiving a written release from this agreement issued by the director/chair/supervisor.
 - Accept a second assistantship appointment when the combination of appointments exceeds 20 hours per week.
 - Accept other positions for stipend at the university in addition to a full-time assistantship. A full-time graduate assistant may hold a student hourly position. A student holding a half-time graduate assistantship may secure other positions for stipend and/or tuition waiver at the university. In any case, the combination of assistantship and hourly on-campus work positions shall not exceed 20 hours per week.
- Graduate assistants are responsible for informing the Graduate School of changes to their contact information.
- Students on assistantship support must complete all duties assigned by the appointing unit(s) in a satisfactory manner and in compliance with the UNC Code of Conduct. Failure to complete assistantship responsibilities will result in remediation (improvement plan) or possible termination of the position. Any violation of the UNC Code of Conduct/Community Standards may result in immediate dismissal from an assistantship position.
- Students on assistantships must comply with all other university and federal policies in the conduct of their courses, including FERPA, Americans with Disabilities Act and Title IX. Students on assistantship are prohibited from having or attempting to have any form of romantic/amorous relationships with students in their courses or administrative departments for whom they have assessment or mentoring responsibilities. Academic and administrative units can dismiss a student immediately from an assistantship for violating this policy. If you have questions about this policy, please contact the Graduate School.

Expected Hours and Weeks of Contracted Work

- The maximum assistantship for which a student is eligible at the University of Northern Colorado is .50 FTE (20 hours per week), whether in a single appointment or any combination thereof.
- GPI, GTA, GA-A and GRA appointments of 16-20 hours per week are considered full-time, and appointments of 8-15 hours are considered half-time. Schools or departments may offer stipend-only appointments working 3-7 hours per week.
- Academic year (AY) agreement: mid-August to mid-May, normally 34 weeks.
 - Students on AY appointments work during both fall and spring terms, beginning one week before the term start date and ending the Wednesday after May commencement ceremonies.
 - Supervisors and students are allowed some flexibility to negotiate weekly work hours and the number of working weeks as long as the student works all of the hours required in the contract (e.g., 18 hours x 17 weeks = 306 contract hours) within the time frame specified above.
 - Students cannot work or be required by supervisors to work beyond the end date of their contract. If a department or student needs an amendment to the agreement end date, please contact the Graduate School.
 - Students on GPI and GTA contracts must report no later than the week before the start of the term (fall and spring). Start dates are confirmed with the department/unit.
 - AY agreements require students to work during non-university holidays (Presidents', Indigenous Peoples' and Veterans days).
- Fiscal year (FY) agreement: July 1 - June 30.
 - The student's schedule follows the UNC calendar, including working during spring, fall and winter breaks, unless other arrangements are agreed upon between the supervisor and student to ensure all contracted hours are met.
 - New FY agreements, beginning in July of each year, require fall enrollment to qualify for the assistantship.
- Students on semester contracts should work their contracted hours over 17 weeks. Alternative arrangements must be specific and approved by the Graduate School.
- As with any professional appointment, the amount of work time may vary slightly from week to week, yet no student should exceed 20 hours per week.

University Breaks, Vacation and Sick Leave

- Students on FY and AY agreements are permitted one week of vacation break. Vacation should be negotiated with the supervisor. Students on GPI and GTA contracts may not take vacation while classes are in session. With the consent of their supervisors, students working over winter break or spring break may work on campus or from home.
- Semester contracts do not include a vacation break.
- All students holding graduate assistantships are entitled to accrue up to 48 hours of sick leave per year in keeping with policies for other student workers.
- Students with semester, AY or FY contracts do not accrue additional paid vacation days or sick leave days beyond what is stated in these terms.
- Students who need to take parental leave should first use their paid sick leave. Colorado residents may be eligible for statutory paid parental leave at 35-85 percent of their stipend. If a student and department wish to develop an alternative working arrangement so a student can take parental leave beyond their sick leave, please contact the Graduate School for assistance.

Admission with Language Requirements or Academic Provisions

- A student who does not meet the minimum language proficiency requirement for admission or who needs to enroll in any courses through the Intensive English Program (IEP) may not hold a GPI as an instructor of record or a GTA appointment teaching under faculty supervision. If the student is able to enroll in graduate courses while completing IEP, then the student may assist in undergraduate courses with direct faculty supervision or hold a GA-A or GRA appointment that does not require language proficiency. Departments may require additional English proficiency assessments.
- A student admitted with academic provisions because of a GPA lower than 3.0 on the last degree granted may hold an assistantship on a one-semester probationary basis. The student must earn a cumulative GPA of at least 3.0 during the first semester in the graduate program to retain the assistantship.

Enrollment and Academic Standing Requirements

- A student must enroll in a minimum of 3 credit hours of graduate classes each term to maintain the assistantship, with the exception of doctoral candidates taking only 1 credit per semester of 799. Classes may not be repeated solely for the purpose of holding a graduate assistantship. Students who have completed all course requirements for their degree are not eligible to hold an assistantship.
- A student enrolled in only dissertation credits should, typically, be hired as an adjunct and not contracted on an assistantship. Students may not hold an assistantship for more than four semesters of dissertation credit only enrollment.
- Students with assistantships must maintain good academic standing at UNC (at least a 3.0 grade point average), attend class on a regular basis throughout the semester, and maintain high standards of academic integrity. Should the cumulative GPA of a graduate assistant (inclusive of all categories) fall below the 3.0 standard, the assistantship will be reassigned to another student the next semester to allow the former graduate assistant to improve the GPA. If a graduate assistant (inclusive of all categories) is found responsible for a violation of academic integrity, the department/school or administrative unit should withdraw the student's assistantship agreement immediately. If a student stops attending class or is administratively withdrawn from class because of non-attendance, the Graduate School will require the immediate termination of the assistantship agreement.
- Students on fiscal year contracts must be registered on the first day of classes to receive the stipend.

Financial Terms

- Stipends, as stated in the agreement, are based on the number of hours per week that you are contracted to work.
- Stipend is deemed taxable compensation.
- The stipend is not a scholarship award, but rather compensation for the performance of assigned duties. Failure to fulfill assigned responsibilities, withdrawal from the university, violations of the Code of Conduct or other university, Graduate School or departmental policies, or failure to meet the above-described conditions may be grounds for termination of this agreement, which shall terminate the stipend payable under this agreement. Assistantship agreements are subject to university policy regarding withdrawal or cancellation charges. If payments of stipend are accepted after the date of termination, the student is responsible for repayment.
- Stipends are paid via direct deposit. A student may be required to provide the university with other information necessary to allow prompt payment of the stipend.
- A student may hold a graduate assistantship or utilize the employee/dependent tuition grant, but not both. A part-time or full-time UNC employee cannot hold a graduate assistantship.

Limits on Assistantship Funding Supported by the Graduate School

- The Graduate School aims to provide support to students in the early stages of their programs and to relieve students of assistantship workload at proposal and dissertation stage so they can make progress toward completion of their degree. The availability of assistantship funding is always dependent on the university budget. For these reasons, the Graduate School reserves the right to place time limits on assistantship funding.
- All assistantships funded through the university are contingent upon the university budget and funding sources. No one in the university has the authority to promise multi-year assistantship funding or automatic renewal of a university funded assistantship position beyond the end date of this agreement.
- A graduate student may not be hired as an adjunct instructor and hold an assistantship in the same term.
- An assistantship is contingent on funding by the State of Colorado and/or the granting agency under which the assistantship is to be funded and approved by the University of Northern Colorado Board of Trustees. Changes to the student's stipend will typically not be made during the term of the agreement. The Graduate School reserves the right to change stipend compensation levels in subsequent years to align with the university's budgetary requirements.
- Regardless of funding source, the university reserves the right to cancel this agreement for any reason with 30 days' written notification to the student.
