UNC is classified by the Carnegie Foundation as a doctoral/research university. We utilize a teacher/scholar model where faculty demonstrate and value superior teaching supported by original, active research. Faculty members are active participants in their career fields and provide you with expert guidance.

Why UNC?

As a doctoral research university, we can help you start or advance your professional or academic career with small class sizes, nationally recognized faculty, sophisticated facilities and affordable tuition with more than 100 programs of study on campus, off campus or online.

We are committed to your success as a graduate student, providing relevant academic and professional coursework and real-world experiences in an environment where faculty and staff value personal attention as a key to learning.

Greeley Campus

In Greeley, with a population of more than 100,000 people, located in Weld County, one of the fastest-growing counties in Colorado.

Extended Campus

Off-campus programs are offered in formats to fit the needs of adult learners and working professionals. These programs maintain the high academic standards and quality instruction experienced in our on campus graduate programs.

- Off Campus

UNC has two off-campus centers, in Loveland and in Denver. Programs can also be delivered in other parts of the state to fill community or school district needs.

- Online

A classroom that is accessible 24/7.
